I was expecting a 'granny square' – where are the granny stitches that make up a granny square?? You show a very pretty square motif but I do not see even one "granny stitch" ! Just because it is a square doesn't mean it's a 'granny square'. Square motif with hundreds of stitch designs have been around for ages; they are square motifs with various names but are not granny squares

Yes, a traditional granny square is a square which uses granny clusters. However, now the terminology "granny square" applies to almost any square. I have a book "99 Granny Squares" by Leisure Arts. It has 99 different square designs and a lot of them are not traditional granny squares, but the publisher still calls them granny squares.

These are granny squares, granny square is not indicative of any certain stitch. Granny squares are from the Victorian days with "grandmas" would use scraps of yard to make squares they later would sew together to make blankets, any small square that is crocheted can be referred to as a granny square.

You can make this square bigger by adding 1 or 2 rounds of DC after round 7.

Yes, you can use these squares to make a bag. I can't tell you how many squares you need as the number of squares will depend on the size of your bag. One square is about 6-1/2" x 6-1/2".

Row 4 and Row 5 are tricky. I didn't do it quite right so the whole square looks off.

Maybe a zoomed in view of how to start and end these rows would help.

Round 6 of Heart Granny Square does not work. Only 10 spaces are involved. What about the other spaces?
